VERMONT NEWS

Items of Interest from Various Parts of The State

The Northern Vermont Fish and Game club held its annual banquet at the Newport House Friday evening, 125 members being present.

Nineteen individuals have applied for liquor licenses in Montpelier. Twenty-one applications have been made in Barre and five in Northfield.

The examination for postmaster at Rutland, scheduled for April 15, has been cancelled. The reason for this is not known and Postmaster Meldon has refused to comment on the action of the commission. It probably means that Mr. Meldon will continue as postmaster.

Frank Baffet of Burlington, owner and conductor of the Willard Stone Quarry on Shelburne road, is at the Mary Fletcher hospital in a serious condition as result of a fall from a flight of stairs in the rear of the New City Hotel, conducted by George LaFrance, on Main street.

Harvey Hersey, formerly mayor of Barre, died in Burlington Thursday at the home of his niece, Mrs. H. L. Ford. He had been in poor health for a long period. He was born in Calais in 1830, and about 30 years of his life were spent in Barre.

The state board of health has distributed 2,000 Health First Readers among school children under 10 years of age who have earned memberships in the Modern Health Crusade. H. W. Stocum, secretary of the State Anti-Tuberculosis association, says the demand for these readers exceed the supply.

The Burlington Rendering Co. will hold its fourth and final sale of furs about May 1. Spring muskrats will be the only furs offered at this sale. These skins are very high just now, a number are bringing about $1.75 and the poorer goods less. At a recent sale in Boston the company disposed of $15,000 worth of skins.

David L. Barber's house in Benson caught fire a few days ago in a room upstairs. A lighted match left in an ash tray was the cause. The fire extended to the bed nearby and burned it up. Help was summoned and the house was saved by hard work and much water which did a good deal of damage. Mrs. Barber's hands were badly burned.

At the E. B. House farm in Berlin Thursday afternoon an auction sale of 20 head of registered Holstein and Ayrshire stock was disposed of at good prices. G. H. Bigelow paid the highest price, which was $325; Waldo Farrar of Montpelier purchased a granddaughter of the $50,000 bull named King Segis Pontiac Alcapa for $250.

Albert Brunelle of Burlington, who is employed at the power plant house at the gorge, broke through the floor and fell 20 feet into the deep water below while engaged in fixing a stalling box. No help was at hand and Mr. Brunelle was obliged to swim fully five minutes in the icy water before he was rescued. As a result of his long exposure he is unable to use his left arm at present.

The secretary of state office has received notice from Bellows Falls that C. H. Parker of that town has been convicted in the municipal court there on the charge of using number plates which were not assigned to him and that he was fined $50 for the offense. It appears that he took the plates from a car which had been licensed and was standing in a garage and then used them on his own. Parker's car.

Ruel K. Thayer, for several years manager of the Tip-Top farm in Westminister, is now connected with the management of the 400-acre farm at Buzzards Bay, Mass., known as the Bay End farm. He has charge of the poultry department. Mr. Thayer is a graduate of the Vail Agricultural school at Lyndonville and has been for several years engaged in raising and marketing poultry. He is a secretary of the Connecticut Valley Poultry association.

Dissolving Tees.
Golfing golf tees have been invented, the idea being that they soon are dissolved by the atmosphere and will not litter up a golf course if forgotten.

Only One Corn Peeler, "Gets-It"

Stop Corn Pains; See Corn Peel Off.

It is just when a corn hurts that you want to feel sure about getting rid of it. Why take chances of keeping the corn and having the pain grow worse? You'll use "Gets-It."

The Only Peel-Off Way Is "Gets-It"

It's anyhow, sooner or later, might as well use it sooner. Then you are absolutely sure that the corn will loosen from your toe so that you can peel the whole thing off painlessly with your fingers, in one complete piece—just like peeling a banana. It takes a second or two to apply "Gets-It." There's no fussing or putting. Corn-pains will vanish—that'll keep you sweet while the "Gets-It" does the rest. Nothing new for corns has been discovered since "Gets-It" was born. Follow the judgment of the millions: use "Gets-It" and be sure to be corn and pain free! You'll say it's magic. "Gets-It" is the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store, 1173 by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Bennington and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by W. L. Gokay and B. A. Quinlan.

Full Protection for Your Automobile!

Enforced Responsibility

A bill has been introduced in the Wisconsin legislature providing that no automobile owner may obtain a license until he has satisfied the Secretary of State that he is worth $10,000 or that he carries automobile liability insurance to the amount of $10,000, or furnishes two sureties on his bond each worth $10,000. This bill, whether it passes or not, and whatever its merits from a legislative point of view, is full recognition of the fact that no automobilist can guarantee that he will not—at some time and in some place—finally have the accident which he thought he could not have.

The Price Question.

Everybody hopes to see lower prices for the necessities of life at least. The revival of business and industrial activity seems to hang on the question of price. The government refuses to buy steel rails at the price fixed by the steel men and the government industrial board, wholesalers refuse to order large stocks and business in general halts in the hope that the next order may be bought for less money. Manufacturers in turn cannot make lower prices on account of the high cost of labor and materials. Labor maintains that it cannot accept a reduction in wages on account of the high cost of living and the high cost of labor makes cheaper living impossible. There is a real deadlock in business and the question of breaking it is a serious one.

There has been such a large proportion of the man power of America and Europe taken from construction work and forced into destruction work, so much productive man-power destroyed and so much industrial machinery and capital turned to the production of war materials that a serious shortage of labor and materials exists. So great is this shortage and so great the demand that a return to normal prices cannot be effected by adjustments between a government board and manufacturers. Until the supply can more nearly fill the demand high prices inevitably will continue.

A downward revision of prices depends on the American people themselves. There must be continued denial of luxuries and extravagance equal to the denial of war times. There must be a complete utilization of man-power in productive labor as there was when the young men were going to war. The men and women who gave up their idleness and luxury during the war cannot at this time relax their efforts at useful labor. The denial of idleness, extravagance and idleness will go much further toward a general reduction of prices than conferences at Washington between politicians and business men. The matter of price reductions rests with the people. If they will give to constructive labor the same patriotic support and sacrifice they did to the destructive work of war a reduction of prices will come—not immediately, but ultimately. If they rush back to all the expensiveness of high living they will continue to pay the price, high as it is.—Brattleboro Reformer.

HAD FOUND SOMETHING NEW

Literary Boob Got Some Satisfaction Out of His Rejection for Service in Army.

Of course, it happened long ago. The poor literary boob had made application for entrance to an officers' training camp. The examining surgeon found that, besides suffering with flat ears, ingrown hair, tobacco eyes and a mole on his spleen, the poor fellow had a complexion too sallow to harmonize with khaki. So the surgeon had to reject him. The chap began to rave and to tear his hair and to cast ominous glances toward the river. The surgeon, kind-hearted old military sawbones that he was, saw something must be done quickly, so he seized a little square piece of paper and on it printed the following words: "For once your contribution is rejected because it lacks merit. Furthermore, we do not have an abundance of similar material on hand. We positively will not be glad to receive further contributions from you, because it will simply waste your time and ours. Cordially yours, the United States Army."

With a glad cry, the literary boob pressed the life-saving little document to his lips and, with a fervent prayer for the health and safety of the kind old "surge," went on his way rejoicing that he had tried to do his bit and for once it was his fault that it didn't stick.—Indianapolis News.
